BACKGROUND

Partnering with clients to develop pragmatic and contemporary people solutions is at the heart of Christine's work. For almost 30 years, she has been consulting to public and private sector organisations, both large and small. Christine is passionate about working with clients to develop solutions to improve their business.

Some of Christine's key assignments include:

- a statewide training needs analysis of 1100 employees in the disability services sector resulting in a key report and recommendations for bridging skills gaps in response to a State Government report
- development of a change management plan for the transition of an internal business unit to key service provider supporting the introduction of a statewide policing platform
- development of a 3-year workforce development strategy to support an internal IT Division bridge critical capability and skill gaps
- development of a workforce capability framework for a large Queensland university.

Christine has worked with C-suite senior executives through to field and frontline staff and teams in retail, financial services, health services, arts and entertainment, professional services, local and state government, disability services, NFP sector, utilities and higher education.

Christine's key areas of expertise are organization change and development, learning and development and workforce capability.

Christine has been an active member of the Institute of Management Consultants for 25 years, is currently the Executive Director of IMC and the Chief Assessor for awarding Certified Management Consultant status in Australia.
